Desmond Ferguson is from Lansing, Michigan and graduated from Lansing Everett High School. He attended the University of Missouri on scholarship in 1996 before transferring to the University of Detroit, where he graduated in 2000 with a degree in business administration & accounting. While at UofD, he helped guide the Titans to two consecutive NCAA Tournament second round appearances. Ferguson finished as the only player in UofD history to record 70 or more three pointers in three consecutive seasons.

In 2002, while playing professional basketball, Desmond founded Moneyball Sportswear, an athletic clothing line that specializes in making custom made sports uniforms. He played professionally overseas in several countries, including The Netherlands, The Philippines, Spain, Bulgaria, Germany, The Dominican Republic, and Canada. In 2004, Desmond signed to play for the NBA's Portland Trailblazers.

Desmond retired from professional basketball in 2011 after 11 seasons. He was also formerly the head basketball coach at his alma mater, Lansing Everett High School. Desmond Ferguson runs Moneyball Sportswear full-time, where they have their headquarters based in Lansing, Michigan.
